PRESIDENTIAL TICKET.

For Independent American Bimetallism and People's Government.

For President, WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, of Nebraska. For Vice-President, THOMAS WATSON, of Georgia.

OREGON UNION PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS, N. L. BUTLER, Polk County, Democratic; M. L. OLMSTED, Baker County, Peoples; HARRY WATKINS, Yamhill Co., Peoples; E. HOFER, Marion Co., Silver Republican.

The doodlebug statesmen are not in it.

Read the exposure of the Bryan pension in another column.

John H. Mitchell and his railroad to Mars are out of sight by this time.

Tillman is a man of the people—not an aristocrat—and that is what hurts.

Hear the hot air engine of South Carolina pump the wind out of the goldbugocracy at Salem Friday.

Tillman at Salem Friday if it's a fine day will have the biggest meeting given one man in this campaign.

All Bryan men who can speak should be out at the country school houses these last weeks of the campaign.

Dolph is logically the only man man the gold standard people want for senator. They are right. He is consistent.

Bourke Cochran of New York says in all his speeches for McKinley that he (Cochran) is a free trader and that is not the issue.

Senator Tillman roasts Cleveland about as Judge Bonham did Penneyer at Gervais. He is old specific caloric himself turned loose.

Dr. Driver says "To h—ll with the silver men." He always was one himself, and will hardly get to heaven on the Dives plan.

Hon. H. L. Barkley is making converts for Bryan and free silver wherever he speaks. He will warm up Harvey Scott at Portland the last week of the campaign.

Congressman Hurley, of Wisconsin, speaks at the Armory Thursday evening. He is a silver Republican who refuses to make a doodlebug out of himself.

Harper's Weekly and the New York Times, are giving Mark Hanna shel for trying to raise the tariff issue in the close of the campaign, and swear it will beat McKinley.

Every railroad company is glad to haul Bryan's private car free, because they make hundreds of thousands of dollars hauling the crowds that go to hear Bryan speak.

Great Scott! Iowa and Ohio doubt for McKinley by their own admission: yet they talk of carrying Kentucky, Indiana, Kansas and Nebraska. Gentlemen, Mr. Bryan is elected President before tomorrow night.

The Republican papers accuse Mr. Bryan of advocating what "he thinks" instead of what he is told to advocate. The trouble with the most of the "sound money" men is that they dare not advocate what they THINK but must preach whatever the syndicate prescribes.

STATE NEWS

Astoria has a Bryan club with 610 members.

The tax levy for Clatsop county this year will be between 12 and 13 mills.

The Albany ladies have a Bryan club which will meet next Saturday for the first time.

The bonded indebtedness of Astoria on June 30, was $112,821.30. A total indebtedness of $202,263.39.

Ward Davis, of Athena, was held to the grand jury last week on a charge of disposing of liquor to a minor.

The Baker City Blade has stopped publication. George H. Currey has bought the press and material and will move them to La Grande.

The semi-annual financial statement of Crook county shows that the resources of the county amount to $37,474.06 and the liabilities to $34,600.03.

John F. Bloomingcamp, the Sprague river sheepman, has sold his entire clip of wool, 45,000 pounds, to the Ashland woolen mills, for 8 cents per pound.

A little less than 1000 bushels of cranberries were taken by C. D. McFarlin from his ranch on North slough, in Coos county, this year. The Indians did most of the picking.

The one indictment found by the grand jury in Gilliam county last week was against William Kenny, who lives near the John Day opposite Sherman county, for stealing calves belonging to Mr. Schott.

The corner's jury decided in the case of Mrs. Savage and her three children, who burned to death near Summit, in Benton county, last Sunday, that they came to their death by fire, the cause of which was unknown.

News was brought to Prineville last week that a band of sheep which was being driven through the forbidden country at Izee was surrounded by masked men, their herder held up and 217 head of sheep killed or wounded. The herder's camp was burned.

A phenomenal pumpkin vine was raised this year by Mr. Burchett on Mill creek, says The Dalles Chronicle. It covers a space as large as that between the four corners of intersecting streets in The Dalles. It bears 22 large pumpkins of an average weight of 24 pounds, to say nothing of the small ones, and hence has over 440 pounds of pumpkin.

Gracie, the little daughter of F. E. Brown, of Fossil, last week, had a playhouse in the sand. She found in the house what she thought was a toad, and put her hand down to haul out the intruder, but concluded it was too repulsive, so she called on a boy to help her. They discovered then that the supposed toad was a huge rattler.

Normal School Notes.

R. B. Dilworth, of Roseburg, was visiting school last week.

Miss Nora Veatch, of Cottage Grove, entered school last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Looney, of Jefferson, are visiting their son who is attending this school.

Our school is rapidly increasing. New students this week are Elmer and Dan Parker, of Oakland; A. Caster and Arthur Rice, of Rice Hill; Earnest Morningside, of this place.

Hon. H. L. Benson, of Grants Pass, a former president of this school, visited chapel last week and gave a short talk which was enjoyed by all.

Literary Society was organized last Saturday night with following permanent officers: president Edwin Rhodes, vice-president, Walton Looney. Secretary T. Chaney, Treasurer Mr. Faucett, Sergeant-at-arms, Mr. Crow. Program committee, Prof. Blanchard, The Goin and Nellie Jester. The following program will be rendered next Saturday night:

Song, by society; select reading, Fred Mice; recitation, Wm. Beebe; select reading, Jessie Withers; vocal solo, Daisy Badgers; remarks, John Patterson; song, by society; reading, Clara Edwards; recitation, Miss Cowan; reading, Winnie Cutler; extemporary speech, James Blanchard; song, by society.

The school is having a great boom this fall, there being a larger attendance now, than at first last year, and yet only half of the term is gone. Two extra teachers have been added to the faculty, on account of the full attendance. Many more students are yet to enter soon, and the enrollment promises to be immense. All parties are working in perfect harmony, and all are much pleased with present conditions.

DAZED ON THE DESERT.

A Man Dies of Thirst Within One Hundred and Fifty Yards of a Lake of Fresh Water.

On the burning sands of Coconino desert beside a lake that appears to be of the coolest and the purest of fresh water, lie the bones of an American who died of thirst, and around him are five or six holes of two or three feet in depth, which he dug with his finger nails in a frenzy of thirst. His fingers are worn off at the ends, and only his whitening bones are left to bear witness to the tragedy.

Jose Garcia, who makes a living by peddling from one little camp to another on the desert, has returned from a trip which began on Aug. 20. He left here at that time and engaged a guide at the new place camp at Los Pichachos, below the boundary line, to take him to a mining camp in the Coconino mountains in the heart of the desert. The guide was named Quirino Soello, a half breed, and with them went also Frank Cota, a Mexican. They left Los Pichachos in the afternoon, traveled all night, and by the next morning were far out on the desert. By some miscalculation they were without water, and though not lost they were bewildered as to the nearest way to a well and spent the next two days in traveling without water, becoming almost insane from thirst.

On the evening of the third day they found water. They were then on the northeast side of Great Salt Lake, or Laguna Salada, that lies between the Coconino mountains on the east and the Painted mountains on the west. The lake is about six miles wide and 20 or 30 in length, varying in size according to the season, indicating that it is fed by the Gulf of California. It is very shallow and saltier than the waters of the ocean.

The three men proceeded southward between the lake and Coconinos for a distance of ten miles or so and there encountered two Mexicans and a white man. The two former were named Margarito Angulo and Felipe Moreno, and the American's name was not learned, but from the description he is thought to be Fred Wassum, who left this city for the Coconino placers some weeks ago. Garcia continues the story as follows:

"The men came from Los Pichachos by way of Niji and had been without water for several days, and one of them, Margarito Angulo, was already crazy. He was as deaf as a post and wandered around like a drunken man. He paid no attention to my guide, and we had to lay hold of him to make him drink. In a few hours he was all right. The others were in their right minds, but in a terrible condition, and as I saw their swollen tongues my own began to swell, for I had passed through the same torture only two days before, and even now my tongue swells while I think of it. We gave them water, and they soon revived and continued on their way. They were burdened with a dry washer and many tools and moved slowly, so we left them, my guide giving them directions where to find the next water.

"A few miles farther we came upon the bones of a man lying stark on the sand about 25 yards from the lake. There was no flesh left. The coyotes had found the body. One leg was gone, but the rest of the remains were there. The head lay toward the north, face upward. The whiskers were dark and turning gray, and the hair was the same. The man had worn a blue jumper, a red woolen undershirt, one boot and a brown slouch hat. I found a cheap clasp purse in his jumper pocket which contained this paper, which is a piece of an envelope or paper sack, addressed 'James Moore, paymaster A. T. and S. F. Topoka.' In the purse was also part of a greenback. There was nothing else to identify the body. The boot was about a No. 6, and the man did not seem to have been large.

Let Me Give It the Shake.

Uncle Allen had dropped into a cobbler's shop for repairs. As he rose up after putting on the mended shoe he pulled the chair up with him.

"That lump of wax," said the shoemaker, "seems to have formed a strong attachment for you."

"I don't reciprocate," replied Uncle Allen, "but I confess I'm a good deal stuck on the chair."—Chicago Tribune.

London Gets It Too.

He was an applicant for a position as tram car conductor. "What are your qualifications for the place?" asked the superintendent.

"I used to work in a shoe par and ing established in London."
